

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

As members of the Unicycling Society of America, let us remember the purpose of our organization:

To foster social and athletic interest in and promote the healthy, wholesome sport of unicycling among youth and adults of the country by establishing voluntary standards of performance and sponsoring and overseeing local and national meets.

To disseminate knowledge and information on all phases of the sport to all interested parties throughout the country via a newsletter and information service.

Let me make a few direct comments about our aims.

"To foster" means to cherish, sustain and promote.

"Social interest" implies that many introverted kids open up socially after the gratification of learning to ride.

"Athletic interest" implies that once a kid has learned to ride, he has the challenge of learning new skills which aids in his mental and emotional as well as physical development.

I could go on...

How well have we as members lived up to the aims? How well have we promoted unicycling? A good indication of this is the number of members we have and the rate at which our membership increases. In the past year, our membership has increased by 10% from 476 to 523. However, by conservative estimates, there are over 100,000 unicyclists in the U.S. I'd bet at least 10% of these fellow unicyclists would become members of our Society, if they knew about us. And there are probably another 100,000 people who seriously would like to become unicyclists, but don't know where to start. We could help them also.

What can we do to reach these people? We can bring up the topic of unicycling with people we meet. Keep a few prospectus forms in our pockets, car, home and business to give out. We could organize simple events involving a handful of unicyclists (or more) and notify the local press. We could get people in our school systems interested in teaching unicycling skills to our kids. There are many other things we could do and everyone of them will help.

We have a fine high quality newsletter. Many members are sending information in about themselves, their clubs, other unicyclists, performers, etc. for inclusion in the newsletter. This is another way we can promote the aims.
